The Commonwealth

01.

Welcome

Her Excellency
Marie-Louise Coleiro Preca
President of Malta

It is indeed an honour for Malta to be hosting the first Women's Forum as part of the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting. Convening a Women's Forum shows the Commonwealth's commitment to giving recognition to the role of women in society today, and should highlight the opportunities for the often untapped potential of women to the socio-economic agenda and their competence as leaders. The empowerment of women is adamant to the development of an equal and just society throughout the world.

In view of this, the Women's Forum needs to also bring to the fore the suffering of women across the globe. Even today, women and girls are experiencing harsh realities in their everyday life; as girls are still being denied education, abduction from their families for sexual exploitation, made to suffer the horrific practice of Female Genital Mutilation, and be victims of violence and cruelty.

The time is ripe to move from rhetoric to action. May the Women's Forum move beyond discussions to entice the Heads of Government present to act to ensure the wellbeing of women and mark an end to the atrocities women and girls are experiencing today. The Commonwealth can effectively be an inspiration to the world in bringing about change in the lives of women and girls.

I augur successful and effective discussions at the Women's Forum, so that women and girls all over the Commonwealth may have the opportunity to reach their full potential.

Women Ahead: Be All That You Can Be

The theme chosen for this inaugural Commonwealth Women's Forum is a clear message supporting the empowerment of women. Women have the potential to change their own economic status, as well as that of the communities and countries in which they live. Yet more often than not, women's economic contributions go unrecognised, and unequal opportunities between women and men continue to hamper women's ability to empower themselves and improve their lives. In societies where equality for all is not just a notion but a tangible reality, communities are enriched by the diversity of contributions which transcend gender, in all aspects of life. This is the future we envisage for the one billion women who live in the Commonwealth.

Overview

Women's economic empowerment is increasingly viewed as the most important contributing factor to achieving equality between women and men. Economically strengthening women – who are half the world's workforce – is not only a means by which to spur economic growth, but also a matter of advancing women's human rights.

This year Malta will host the first ever Commonwealth Women's Forum. The intention is for the Commonwealth Women's Forum to become a permanent feature in CHOGM programmes and be the focal point for discussions on women's contributions in societies within the Commonwealth and beyond. The Forum will provide a platform for women to discuss challenges they face, share best practice and agree on actions and recommendations to carry forward to the leaders of the Commonwealth.

It will be attended by government leaders, women leaders, civil society representatives and business leaders from across the Commonwealth.

Objectives of the 2015 Women's Forum:

- Place women's social and economic issues on the Commonwealth agenda.
- Bring together people from across the globe to share stories of success.
- Raise awareness about matters affecting women's development in order to tackle poverty and inequality.
- Create a networking platform for building new relationships and reinforcing existing ones.
- Encourage younger generations to secure fulfilment in their lives and those of others.
